DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, 3-14, 16-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chiam et al. (2005/0009571) in view of Robarts et al. (6,842,877)

Regarding claim 1, Chiam discloses a method for providing context- based information on a mobile device display (figs.1-3), comprising: predicting a set of services from a plurality of services by a user profile data including usage pattern data to construct the set of services (figs.1-3, paragraph 39); displaying a service icon (218, 280) representing a service of the set of services in a primary position (the selected main menu icon labeled 280 is shown by a cursor 218 in the shape of a box) (fig.3a); displaying service icons representing remaining service in the set of services in secondary positions(other icons such as 220, 230, 240, 260, 270, 250, 290, 300) (fig.3a); displaying icons representing remaining services outside the set of services in a tertiary position (icons 170, 175, 180, 185, 190 or 170', 175', 180', 185', 190' are outside in a tertiary position) (figs.1B, 2A). However, Chiam does not specifically disclose the usage pattern data includes a name a time and a frequency associated with a user profile information.

Robarts discloses a method for predicting appropriate content for presentation or retrieval by detecting pattern data of a user profile information in a mobile phone and displaying on the mobile phone, wherein the detected pattern data includes a name, a time and a frequency of the service (abstract, column 4 lines 4-12, column 5 lines 17-20, column 9 line 54 to column 10 line 20, column 16 line 39 to column 17 line 54, column 48 lines 54-55, column 51 lines 1-5, figs. 11A-12, 15-17). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to have Chiam, modified by Robarts to minimize time to search a desired service in order to empower users to take full advantage of a plurality of different services.

Regarding claim 8, this claim is rejected for the same reason as set forth in claim 1 as apparatus.

Regarding claim 14, a computer program is inherently in Chiam system to execute the displaying process.

Regarding claims 3, 9, 16, Chiam further discloses the tertiary position is within a tertiary tray that can be hidden (paragraph 22).

Regarding claims 4, 10-11, 17, Chiam further discloses a ticker tape display (figs. 1B-3C), wherein the ticker tape display that presents data in a scrolling manner (#163 figs. 2A-B, 3B-C)

Regarding claim 5, 18, Chiam further discloses displaying information icon labels for each icon (for example, fig.1B, the information label MESSAGING is ICON 205), each information icon label presenting specific information regarding a state of a corresponding service as it applies to a particular user (fig.2A) (figs 1B-3C).

Regarding claims 6-7, 12-13, 19-20, Chiam further discloses the information labels change the state of the corresponding (for example: the main menu icon MESSAGING has a sub-menu SEND MESSAGE, READ MESSAGE..etc; the main menu icon CALL LOG has sub menus ROLAN,D STEVE, ANG LAU . etc.(figs. 1B-3C) and the service icons are animated based on the state of the corresponding service (fig.1B-3C).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 8, and 14 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

The new cited art issued to Robarts disclosing the newly added limitations in independent claims 1, 8, 14 as indicated in the above rejection.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure: Horvitz et al. (US 2005/0132006 A1) discloses a method for predicting appropriate content for presentation or retrieval by detecting pattern data of a user profile information in a wireless communication device and displaying on the device, wherein the detected pattern data includes a name, a time and a frequency of the service (paragraphs 3; 7, 28, 37, 48, 55, 70, figs. 1-14); Hoffberg et al.
